FORT STEWART, GA. – The Spa at Fort Stewart hosted a ribbon cutting in conjunction with the Liberty County Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday, November 1st at their facility at 112 Vilseck Road, Building 419 on Fort Stewart. Owner, Nikki Criss welcomed chamber staff, board members, ambassadors, members and people from the community to this event.

“Here at The Spa, we are not only about pampering, more importantly we are advocates of total body wellness,” Nikki said. She went on to explain the treatments and services that the salon offers. Her staff was invited to introduce themselves to the crowd and explain their essential roles within The Spa.

The Spa at Fort Stewart is dedicated to providing each individual client with incredible, outstanding and unbelievable service conducted under the highest standards of business ethics. The facility offers services that include body care, massage, facial treatments, nail services, hair removal, spa packages and special occasion services.

“We welcome you to the Chamber, we are here for you and support your growing business,” said Leah Poole, Executive Director of the Liberty County Chamber of Commerce.

Those in attendance enjoyed in-depth tours of the facility with sample services performed. Gift bags were distributed to guests, which contained information pertaining to services available, along with a five dollar gift discount coupon to be used at The Spa.

Established in 1976, the Liberty County Chamber of Commerce’s mission is to support new and existing business, trade and industry within Liberty County, while increasing the cultural, civic, educational and overall quality of life of its citizens. The Chamber and its’ 442 members are committed to enhancing the local business climate and maintaining a high quality of life in the community.
